RE: Trevor Manton – Work Experience

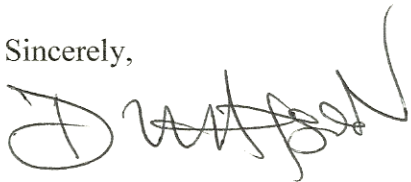

April 5, 2011

Dear Sir:

Trevor Manton was a local customer of ours in Los Angeles between the years of 2005 and 2007. He was working as a decorative artisan in the Southern California area and completed many different types of projects, including drywall installation and finishing, cornice work, ornamental plaster, faux finishing, and interior and exterior installation of our lime based plaster products. Trevor was often recommended to our customers as an installer because of his innate ability to envision our clients' requests and make them come to life. We were always happy to give him these referrals because he always provided the highest quality of craftsmanship and service. Trevor was certified by attending training classes through our company, and because of his expertise with our products, we would often take Trevor with us to different exhibitions and seminars in the area to have him help showcase the materials and demonstrate the unique effects available with our finishes. He was often hired by other plastering contractors as a foreman to help ensure top-tier results for high profile projects throughout the Southern California area. We have always had an outstanding relationship with Trevor because of his knowledge of the plastering trade, his strong sense of business ethics, and his artistic ability helped our customers achieve the fine finishes they dreamed of. We were sad to see Trevor leave California and move to Australia, but we are glad that someone of his caliber is there progressing in his trade and spreading the word about our company and products.

Please feel free to contact me at anytime with any specific questions regarding Trevor Manton's work experience with Meoded.

Sincerely,
